Content

The tricks in detail:

Rubber band tricks

The simplest objects sometimes produce the most astonishing effects. Regular rubber bands, which can of course be borrowed from any viewer, may be used for several tricks. For example, pro magician Gregor Ulrich can make a ring travel up along a rubber band for all to see.

Tricks with matches

Simple objects, such as matches, can be used for dramatic and surprising magic tricks. Matches are made to pass through each other in front of viewers or they can be moved as if by an invisible hand. All tricks can be performed without any prior preparation, even using borrowed matches.

Magic tricks with cigarettes

Cigarettes are always available. Even as a non-smoker, you can astonish the audience by magically multiplying cigarettes, move them using thought power or let them disappear into your nose. Gregor Ulrich demonstrates numerous variations on these tricks.

Tricks with coins and bank notes

Amaze your audience with easy-to-learn, but very effective magic tricks using coins and bank notes. Someone who can deal with money always takes the centre stage!

Amazing love tricks

Gaining someone's favour with passionate words is not for everyone. Try a magical love trick for a change! Even if the person you are interested in is not impressed by you, an embarrassing situation can rapidly be exchanged for a refreshing conversation.

The torn beer mat

Turn back time! The corner of a beer mat is ripped off and given to a viewer. The rest of the beer mat is torn apart and burned. You take an envelope out of your pocket, which contains a beer mat with one missing corner. Miraculously, the corner the viewer has is an exact match! Gregor Ulrich explains how this trick works.

The tricks mentioned above and many more using everyday objects are illustrated step by step by pro magician Gregor Ulrich. Supported with recordings from different camera angles every hand movement is illustrated in detail. A special show demonstrates how a live audience reacts in bars or discos and how easy it is to can be to start conversations.
