

GLIDESONIC - ENERGY

Release Date: September 13, 2019

British Uber Cool EDM-Pop Band Glidesonic, with their electro assault on Planet Earth has already won over a squadron of intergalactic converts. After a quick pit stop to creatively refuel, the band are on the charge once more, aboard their Sonic Space Scooter.

Having stormed into the European dance charts with their last two singles – Super Cool Aliens (Top 10 in the UK and German dance charts) and Return to Desire (Number 5 in the German Deep House chart) – the planet-hopping purveyors of pop-infused EDM return with their soul-splintering new track, Energy.

Energy is a hypnotic spark of EDM-pop that spasms riotously into a dash-to-the-dancefloor anthem, propelled by beguiling vocals and their trademark electro thump.

Produced by Glidy, the band's uber cool, android super-cat mainstay, the new track also introduces Glidesonic's three new musical recruits: The Sidekick Twins - the band's androgynous, song-writing cool-movers and vocalists, and Chill Frog, a loveable but clueless galaxy-navigating, flip-flop wearing guitarist.

The eye-popping, retro-futuristic music video that accompanies the track sees the four intrepid space warriors on their trusty Sonic Space Scooter, as they cross the solar system emitting a psychedelic barrage of colour, enthusiasm and astral cool. Their mission is clear: target all the messed-up, misery soaked planets and electroshock them alive with a large dose of peace, love and pop-infused EDM. Starting with Planet Earth...-

Resistance to Glidesonic in fact, is futile.
