

ABOUT THE ARTIST

NELIA MIKA | Codlea, Romania

Singing is her life! She passionately started out as a singer in childhood days with performances in her school and church choir in Brasov, Romania. She is a professional dancer and showed off her talent early on at private festivals and local events.

Working as a furniture designer at first, she soon managed to self-finance her training as singer and performer at a private music academy which she passed with flying colors and a master's degree.

Nelia started working for various professional bands and the stage became her second home. Radio and television stations soon became aware of her which led to many public appearances in popular shows and events.

Having spent several years in the music business, she then met the love of her life and became mother while dedicating more time to her young family. All through the years, however, she never lost track of her musical ambitions and continued performing regularly on festivals and events.

In 2014, she caught the attention of smd-records, a music label that produced and released a single recording with her. Her latest song is available in Romanian and German language across a number of European countries and, globally, via various media outlets and online platforms.

The song called „Nu, Nu, Nu, Nu Se Poate“ (This really can't be true) is slightly reminiscent of the 1980s and recalls memories of holidays in the sunny south. Such feelings are especially strong in the romanian version of the song. The participation in the preselection of the Eurovision Song Contest is planned for early 2015.

NELIA MIKA | An exciting artist with a powerful voice.
