

Pig'n'aif Blue-ish

by Pig'n'aif

May 2013

Pig'n'aif is a music project working in conjunction with the Rising Records independent record label based in Sheffield (UK). The band's name is pronounced (in a typical Yorkshire accent) as Pig'an'Ayf. The jam-band line-up of the Pig'n'aif project have released their second album containing 14 tracks of re-constructed blues and rock titles.

This album is entitled 'Pig'n'aif Blue-ish'

Hooray... About time... we hear you cry

This new album is a follow-up to the very well-received 'Pig'n'aif Blue' album hence the original title and styling...

OK - we admit it, the name's not that original, but it does reinforce the point that 'Pig'n'aif Blue-ish' takes off where the previous album finished. Although it is composed of classic blues and rock numbers from the jam-band's set, they are treated with an even more radical Pig'n'aif twist. We are quite certain that unless you have seen Pig'n'aif perform these tracks live, you will not have heard these interpretations before.

Please let us know what you think.

Alongside the Guitars and Vocals of Pete Bangert, this album features the welcome return of Jack Bunker on Lead Vocals. Pete and Jack recorded together last in the NWOBHM band Phoenix Rising and are delighted to renew their working relationship.

There are 2 tracks on the album featuring the Lead Vocals of Mel Day who appeared on 'Pig'n'aif Blue'.

The album also features contributions from two session men from the extended Pig'n'aif family, Session Pete on Bass (who featured on the 'Pig'n'aif Blue' album) and the Drums are by our good friend Clatterfoot.
