

Duke Jupiter

Origin: Rochester, New York

Duke Jupiter is an American rock band which originated in Rochester, New York. They were active in the 1970s and 1980s on Mercury Records, CBS Records, and the Motown subsidiary Morocco Records and Powerglide Records. They are best known for their hit single I'll Drink to You.[

After the release of their first album Sweet Cheeks in 1978, Duke Jupiter started touring with national acts, including, ZZ Top, Stevie Ray Vaughan, David Bowie, Bob Seger, Robert Palmer, B. B. King, Toto, Sea Level, Huey Lewis and the News, REO Speedwagon, Foreigner, Blue Öyster Cult, The Charlie Daniels Band, Outlaws and John Lee Hooker.

George Barajas died of a brain tumor in August 1982.[3]

Duke Jupiter played a farewell concert in their home-town of Rochester in 1986. This ended a 13-year career for the band.

David Corcoran (born in Smith-town, New York) died of kidney cancer on June 21, 2018, at age 64.