Behind this song is a story about staying independent. And about instagram. And belief.

Give Me Your Love is a collaboration made several thousand kilometres apart. Reuben and Arien connected on Instagram. They took a keen interest in one another's songs. The Irish musician and the Croatian DJ-producer reckoned they could use the sounds trending from each other's country to create something unique and compelling. With Give Me Your Love they've done just that.

The track is the first in a series of songs, each of which speak of heartbreak and passion. Industry insiders have already reacted. But the duo turned down major label album deals; Reuben and his new collaborator knew they had something special. And they believe in a new music industry where anything is possible – especially as independent artists. With Give Me Your Love – and this new sound – Reuben Hester is here to prove exactly that.

Despite their musical collaborations and their instinctive knowledge of each other's recording nuances, remarkably, the duo have never met in person. But this is the music industry in 2024. And according to Reuben Hester's principles of today's music industry, anything is possible.
