

The Crystaleens

The Crystaleens is the moniker of Teesside born singer songwriter Alan Savage.

On this track, 'Tiger Tiger', Kit Haigh plays 12 string guitar.

The song is from the forthcoming digital release album 'Summers Gone Symphony'.

Alan has a musical history going back to post punk days when he was in Basczax, who featured on the Fast Records compilation, Earcom 2.

He was also the singer and main songwriter in The Flaming Mussolinis who were signed to the Portrait label and then Epic, in the 1980s. They released five singles and two albums.
